TRADE WITH JAPAN

IF AMERICANS WANT IT THEY MUST WORK HARD FOR IT.

Observations of a Manufacturer Who Recently Returned from the Orient -Purchase of a Steamship.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.-Irving M. Scott, general manager of the Union iron works, who recently returned from Japan, ject of extending the field of American manufactures of war material to the Oriental countries. Mr. Scott's visit to Japan was for the purpose of inducing the war material in the United States instead of purchasing them from European manufacturers. Mr. Scott said: "If the United States expects to succeed in competing of the world the press of the country of those of other nations and less ready immediate encouragement. Many United States journals reach there, and the effect The Oriental nations are notoriously slow in forming business alliances with foreigners. Competition is extremely close. The expert agent of one of the most important ship building firms in the world was in the Orient for three years before he had secured a single contract, and yet the press of the United States cries out because their capable but brand new manufactories do not capture this field in two

"Whatever may have been the experience of China in regard to her war materiai, no one can say that Japan has been disappointed. She knows what she wants; her officers are competent soldiers, and she has shown a courage that no other government in the world has exhibited in buying the most advanced type of ships and guns furnished by private European manufacturers. The last four years have seen the birth and growth to naturity of extensive plants in the United states for the manufacture of all kinds of war material, and they are wise in making a push for business there. The limit of demand for home consumption of war material is already in sight in the United States, and the manufacturers must get into the foreign market, and Japan is the lace to begin, but to secure patronage hey must work.

"There is a strong popular sentiment in Japan in favor of the United States, and, ndently of this, the United States has the military advantage to Japan of being a near neighbor who will never go to war with her. This is appreciated there, and when the Japanese are satisfied that as good material can be bought in the United States as in Europe they will buy it in large quantities. There is indeed good reason to believe that they will do so in the near future to some extent by way of the near future to some extent by way of experiment, as they are all aware of the advantages of having new and competent competitors in the field."

Japan Buys a Steamer. NEW YORK, Nov. 29 .- A local paper says; been running between this port and the Clyde for the Allan State line since she left the hands of her builders, four years ago, and will be converted into a cruiser. This information comes from a high source, and is semi-officially verified. All knowledge of the sale was, however, denied at the company's offices on Broadway. "It may be senger department, "but we have not been officially informed as yet. All we know is that we received information from the other side to the effect that the vessel would no longer be identified with the line, and to cancel all bookings. As a matter of fact, she was never owned by the company. We simply chartered her." The California has a gross tonnage of 4.244 tons, and was built by A. Stephens & Sons, of Glasgow, who launched her in August of 1891. This firm partially owned the vessel, which cost $400,000 to build. Her withdrawal from the Allan State line leaves but one passenger steamer, the State of Nebraska, in the company's service between Glasgow and this port.

For th first time in fifteen years his audience broke into cheers during his sermon. was when he asserted that he was proud of his Puritan ancestors and wished tha there was a ridge of Plymouth rocks from the battery to Westchester. The sermon contained some sensational features, one of which was an illusion to the Rome boy train wrecker, who, he said, should be tried and convicted within a week and hanged within a month for the good of

He said: "And it is one of the most startling and appalling features of the entire situation that there have been newspapers that, with brazen audacity, have aided and abetted these Anarchists and conspirators, and that for seven days in the week, besides extras, have flaunted their criminal sympathy with crime by the one and have resorted to every conceivable villainous device to make ridiculous the officials that undertook to do what they swore they would do and to make reputable criminals that trampled on the law and that ought to have been treated to a cell and not to eulogy. Some of these papers that for months made a steady practice of instigating crime, if they had been published in Berlin would have been confiscated with all the publication machinery, and their man-agers retired to enforced privacy and a diet of bread and water. the press, but we do decidedly object to the license of the press; we object to the

"We are not objecting to the liberty of issue of incendiary sheets that make it their study to inflame tens of thousands of combustible men against the execution of the lawfully expressed will of the voters of this commonwealth. It is treason. Clear to the innermost vitals of the performance, it is treason, and involves, like any other act of treason, a grim menace to the stability and permanence of our institutions. It is not supposable that all of those whose passions against law were fired by these inflammatory sheets realized the essential treasonableness of their own behavior; they may not all have had the brains to do that, but there was no lack of brain on the part of the journalistic instigators.

Brain and greed are their stock in trade."

ations were quite active in the Indiana field for the month of November, although there is a decrease in all branches of the work, which is usual during the cold winter months. The November report shows 150 new wells completed, of which thirty-four were gas wells or total failures. The others show a dally output added to former productions of 2,565 barrels, or a daily average per well of twenty-two and one-eighth barrels. In drilling wells there are 175, and in new rigs up eighty, making a total of 255 wells which are under way for December developments. The November comparison with the October work is shown in the recapitulation, which gives a correct idea of the completed work and that under way in the State. The great Indiana oil field is extending toward the center and western part of the State, and if the price of the crude product remains at 75 cents or better a barrel, the Indiana field will the coming season. Indications are good for oll at Noblesville, Royal Center, Francisville and Terre Haute, and the coming season will see the territory pretty well tested. Eastern oil men have representatives all over the State taking up leases. I intend to bring off the fight about two miles from El Paso, and it will not be on Texas soil either. The articles of agreement that Fitzsimmons has signed call for a fight with five-ounce gloves and $2,500 forfeit money. I will put up a purse of $20,000, and if I fail to pull off the fight without interference Corbett and Fitzsimmons can put up $10,000 when the papers are signed and $10,000 when the date of the fight is agreed on. I hope the fight will come off about Jan. 10. I am in a position to guarantee to the men absolute protection from interference, and if Corbett is willing to fight, the thing will come off without a hitch of any kind." MR. LAMONT'S REPORT it Is in Good Condition, However, and Ready for Any Emergency-Facts About the National Guard.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.-Daniel S. Lamont. Secretary of Wer, to-day submitted his annual report to the President. It is his annual report to the President. It is chiefly a summary of reports of subordinate officers and bureaus, most of which has already been published. The expenditures of comprising 5,249 officers and men, is maintained by thirty-three States, and the cavalry arm, comprising 5,249 officers and men, is maintained by thirty-three States, and the cavalry arm, comprising 5,249 officers and men, is maintained by the cavalry arm, comprising 5,249 officers and men, is maintained by the cavalry arm, comprising the capacitant of the appropriations induced by the capacitant of the appropriation of the capacitant of the appropriation of the capacitant of the the department for the fiscal year ended June 30 were $52,987,780.40. The appropriations for the present fiscal year are $43,466,-571.75, and the estimates for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1897, are $51,945,643.45.

The Secretary says: "The reports of the officers in command of the several geographical departments show that the year has been tranquil and undisturbed by Indian outbreaks, domestic violence or troubles on the border. Steady and general effort to improve the service has brought the troops everywhere to a highly satisfactory condition as to discipline, efficiency in military exercises, the soldierly, patriotic spirit. The army is better fed, clothed and housed than ever before, and the policy zealously pursued of promoting the personal comfort of the officers and men has resulted in a devotion to the service which is everywhere apparent. It can be said with confidence that never in its history has the present condition of the army been surpassed. "Late in July, in compliance with the request of the Secretary of the Interior. prompted by dispatches from the Governor of the State, a squadron of cavalry and a battalion of infantry were ordered to the Jackson's Hole country in Wyoming to prevent conflict between citizens and Indians. protect the lives of the settlers, and return the Indians, chiefly of the Bannock tribe, assembling of Congress. Naturally the anto their reservations. None of the reports | nual message of the President was the fied, and upon the approach of the troops the Indians, who it transpired were engaged in hunting under their treaty rights, quietly retired to their reservations. The only cas-

STRENGTH OF THE ARMY. The full strength of the army authorized officers. The number of enlisted men in service on Oct. 31 was 25,358. Deducting the sick, those in confinement, recruits not yet joined, those absent on furlough and others employed in staff departments or on detached service, the effective field strength on the same date was 20,584 of all arms. Of the 7,780 men recruited during the year, 5,518 were native born and 2,262 foreign born.

Continuing, the Secretary says: "The receipts from seventy-three post exchanges in operation were $1,518,455; the expenses, $1,-89,233, leaving a balance of $329,222, of which $255,837 were returned as dividends. Many of the exchanges now have libraries, gymnasiums and appliances for out-of-door sports. receipts of the canteens have been reduced from 75 per cent., six years ago, to 40 per cent. during the present year. "The health record of the army for the year is the best annual statement ever consolidated from the returns of the medical officers, for while the death rate is a frac-tion higher than the lowest ever recorded, the other rates are, by far, lower than they ever have been in the history of our service. The death rate from disease was 4.55 compared with 3.95, in 1889, the lowest rate recorded, and 5.64, the average for the last decade. The number of admissions to hospital per one thousand mean strength was compared with an average of 1,121 for the last ten years. The rate of nonefficience was 34, compared with 42 for the last deade, and the average number of days lost by each man was 12.6, compared with 15.5 for the decade. Alcoholism, as a cause of nonefficiency, has notably declined in the

"The trials by general court-martial for the year ended Aug. 31, 1895, were 1,728, compared with 2,189 for the previous year; of inferior courts-martial, 10,997, compared with 15,086 last year, thus corroborating the reports from all officers of a noteworthy improvement in the morale and discipline of the army. Authority is again asked from Congress to compel civilians to testify before general courts-martial when such evidence is necessary.

Paymaster-general that the entire amount of pay earned by each enlisted man paid to him monthly. The existing statutes which require a retention of a small part of each soldier's pay were enacted at a time when army garrisons were scattered throughout the remote frontiers and the needs of the discharged soldier to enable him to reach the place of enlistment were much greater than now. At the end of five years each man would have due him $72 of retained pay. The term of enlistment is now reduced to three years and the retention during a first enlistment is only $12, a sum that the soldier does not need to enable him to reach his home, and which he could better use from month to month as earned. I also concur in the further recommendations of the Paymaster-general to the effect that there be established a uniform rate of commutation for subsistence and clothing of all retired enlisted men and that credit sales of subsistence stores to enlisted men, except when serving in the field, be discontinued."

The Secretary reviews his recommenda-tion for the adoption of the three-battalion formation. He asks that Congress define the scope of the work of printing the war the State's entire representation in both records. "The total cost," he says, "of branches of Congress is now ready for the publication of the official records of the work. Mr. Turple is delighted with the adbegun, to the close of the last fiscal year, was $2,158,073.20, of which $1,045,952.39 was for printing, and the balance for the expense of compilation. The actual product by this expenditure is 11,500 sets of the ninety-six books in print and the accompany-ing maps and plates, also a large mass of uncompleted work in connection with the books yet to be printed."

STATE MILITIA. Regarding the State troops, the Secretary says: "The efforts of recent years to bring the army into closer relations with the National Guard of the States may now be regarded as having established a permanent union between the two forces, advantageous to both. During the year thirty-three officers, six more than in the previous year, were permanently detailed at State headquarters, and forty-three States secured for temporary duty the services of army officers. State encampments of troops were held by twenty-two States, to which twenty-five additional officers were assigned as instructors and inspectors. The conditions are favorable to the development of a volunteer force of upward of 100,000 men, of the highest efficiency and prepared for any service. Legislation, however, is necessary to put to the best use the relations which have been established between the army and the troops of the States. The laws of the United States relating to the militia were enacted in 1792, and need thorugh revision and renovation to bring them into accord with present requirements. "The variety of weapons which now obtains is so great as to preclude the em-ployment of considerable bodies of the militia of different States in co-operation, and the longer the federal government delays action the greater the possibility that dif-ferent States will select different models of rifles, requiring different forms of ammuemployment in joint action of the troops of the different States. The Springfield .45caliber rifle appears to be the best weapon adapted to the use of State troops, and authority from Congress alone is necessary to enable the department fully to equip within the year the militia of the country with this uniform arm. In the event of war the new magazine rifle could be issued to these troops, and a fortnight would be ample to secure proficiency in the use of the arm. The States now hold many unserviceable, worn-out or obsolete stores and weapons advanced to them by the War Department in past years. Authority is asked to grant credit to the States for the return such useless material, to be sold by the federal government for what it will bring, and the proceeds applied to the arming of the militia with uniform, serviceable weap-

Guard has remained unchanged for many years, although the country's population has multiplied many fold. Repeated recommendations for an increase of this appropriation have not met with a favorable response from Congress, though the reasons for such increase seem obvious. It is now suggested that authority be granted to the department to sell to the States, at cost price, such arms and equipments as they may require, and that the proceeds of such sales be credited to the appropriations for supplying and replacing such arms and equipments. These propositions involve no increase in the appropriations for the de-partment, but the bestowal of the authority asked for is necessary to the success of any plan looking toward the joint action of the army and the National Guard of the States in case of war. Community of in-terest, mutual respect and familiarity with each other's methods have been established between the army and the State troops in peace, but unity of action on the field requires uniform armament and equipment."

The Secretary has compiled a table which shows the number of officers and men comprising the National Guard of the States and Territories and allotment to each State and Territory of the annual aneach State and Territory of the annual ap-propriation by the general government, and the appropriations made by each State and tained by twenty-five States. The total number of militiamen is 114,950; total federal allotment, $400,000, and the total State appropriations $2,557,741. The number of Indiana militiamen is given as 3,025; share of government appropriation, $12,939; State appropriation, $45,000.

Gunboat Concord Damaged.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29 .- Among the passengers on the steamer Gaelic, from Japan, to-day, was Rear Admiral Carpenter, who has just been relieved of the command of the China station. He is en route to Washington on waiting orders. Commodore McLeir, who has been appointed to succeed Admiral Carpenter, will sail for China to-morrow on the steamer Rio Janeiro. Advices brought by the Gaelic state that the United States gunboat Concord was seriously damaged by going ashore at Joss House, on the north coast of China. It is said the Concord was coming down the river from Foo-Chow in company with the Monocacy, on Oct. 31, when she ran aground. She was hauled off, but it was feared she had been seriously damaged. The cement foundations of her engines have been cracked.

An Opera Bouffe Rebellion. WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.-Minister Andrade, of Venezuela, has received an unofficial letter from a friend in that country, giving the details of the recent small uprising, which was quickly suppressed. The disturbance occurred in the province of Mi-randa, not far from Caracas. The party was small in number, and had come from Curosoa, where it is believed they were in-spired by Rojas-Paul. At the first sign of disturbance the Venezuelan soldiers dispersed the crowd without a single casualty. The letter describes the affair as an "opera bouffe rebellion." President Crespo is believed to have returned to Caracas after an absence of several months. No word has been received of the British ultimatum.

LIVED A DUAL LIFE.

Suicide of Rufus Suits. Who Secretly Married His Housekeeper.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 29 .- It developed to-day that Rufus Suits, whose dead body was yesterday found in 'his room in the Midland Hotel, committed suicide rather than announce to the world as his lawful wife his former housekeeper, who, it appears, he had secretly married. Suits was once a wealthy clothler in this city, and was formerly connected with the New York firm of A. T. Stewart & Co. He was first married thirty years ago, and lived with his wife up to the time of her death in July, 1894. In September of that year, it is now shown, he secretly married Catherine Spangler, his housekeeper, and has since supported her under the claim that she was his niece. His dual life was made public to-day when the woman broke down under her load and confessed her relations to Suits. She says she had extracted a promise from Suits to acknowledge her as his wife Wednesday. This, in the face of his prominence, he was not strong enough

A Civil Rights Case in Mexico. MEXICO CITY, Nov. 29.—The Superior Court of the federal district has decided to sustain an appeal from the decision of the lower court in the case of the two American negroes who were refused drinks in the Iturbide Hotel billiard room, where there is a bar. The lower court had decided that there was no offense court had decided that there was no offense committed as the the upper court affirms the principle and the negroes no longer have any status at bars if saloon keepers don't want them on Bishop John P. Newman, the friend of General Grant, has arrived here. Hiccoughing Himself to Death.
